PORK LOIN BACK RIBS

The only description you need is delicious and mouth watering. We prefer them dry rubbed, but you are welcome to add sauce. Try em' "Ohio Style", with a coating of House and Git' Down if saucy is your thing. Loin back ribs contain both "white" (less fat) and "dark" (more inter-muscular fat) meat, with each having its own distinct texture. Our ribs are not parboiled "fall off the bone". They are competition style, which is "bite off the bone", with a nice distinctive bark from dry rub and wood smoke.
